

Becoming the Purposeful Company in the utilities sector

We're proud to be working as a pathfinder purposeful company. We believe that if we're united by a clear social purpose, we'll deliver better outcomes for all our stakeholders – our customers, our colleagues, our investors, the society we live in and the environment that we depend on.

This is our journey so far.

WONDERFUL ON TAP

We exist to serve our communities and build a lasting water legacy. This is our purpose and it underpins everything we do.

We believe that our purpose connects us with our customers, inspires our people, attracts investors, and reinforces that in the long term, we share the same interests:

- Customers. Our customers expect us to be a company they can trust. Providing a safe, reliable and affordable service is vital, but for many of our customers this isn't enough. They want to know that we do the right things for the right reasons, and that they and the communities we live in and serve are at the forefront of everything we do.
- Colleagues. We all want good career opportunities, fair reward and recognition, and for our employer to invest in us and our wellbeing. But it's a feeling of purpose that really helps to create a company that we're inspired to work for. We're motivated by the real sense that we're here to serve and that during our stewardship of Severn Trent, we can build a legacy that we're all proud of.
- Investors. For anyone who invests in us, strong financial performance that is achieved responsibly is a minimum expectation. So too is providing a fair return that is commensurate to the risk they take on through that investment. But they are right to challenge us to do more – to be a company that is ambitious, a company that will push forward what our sector can achieve, while sharing its successes with its stakeholders along the way. Aside from a positive return, ultimately they want us to be a company that can make a wider difference with the money they invest in us.

So at Severn Trent we operate our business consistently with our purpose, towards our vision of being the most trusted water company, and according to our values:

- we put our customers first
- we're passionate about what we do
- we act with integrity
- we protect our environment
- we're inspired to create an awesome place to work.

And we're proud to be the only utility working as a pathfinder with the Purposeful Company, an initiative that seeks to transform British business with purposeful companies that are committed to creating long term value through serving the needs of society.

Our purpose in practice

As part of our pathfinding role, we've been working to show the role that purpose plays in meeting the needs of our three key stakeholders – customers, colleagues and investors - using a concept that has its roots in Maslow's hierarchy of needs. It was borne out of the two-year engagement programme we undertook for our 2020-25 business plan.

We believe each hierarchy is mutually reinforcing – for example, we cannot deliver strong operational performance if we do not meet the fundamental needs of our customers, and we cannot do this without a motivated and engaged workforce.

To bring these hierarchies to life, in the following pages we've included examples of the progress we've made and some of the new commitments we're making over the next five years (AMP7). We now want to build on this.

Our journey so far

Our journey to becoming a purposeful company started some time ago but has been given energy and direction over the past two years. As we continue to engage with like-minded stakeholders, we are inspired to push our ambitions further but acknowledge we still have much work to do. We hope that along our journey we can bring others with us to contribute to this growing business community.

Unconscious 'natural' purpose

Our business model naturally lends itself to having a clear purpose.

We provide an essential resource for life. In order to fulfil this public service to the best of our ability we must naturally be mindful of the way we interact with the environment we operate within, taking care of precious natural water resources and maintaining the ecology of our region as we return cleaned wastewater back to the environment.

The monopolistic nature of the industry creates a stronger need for us to put customers' interests at the heart of our decision-making so they would choose us if they had the option. In 2015 we set an ambition to be the most trusted water company by 2020 and we're well on the way to achieving that.

Our regulatory model incentivises balanced performance for customers, communities and the environment.

Natural purpose meets customer intent

As part of our PR19 work we carried out our most extensive customer research ever and established our customers had a clear hierarchy of needs to establish trust.

This insight awakened our natural purpose and broadened our thinking to allow us to more clearly link our purpose to the needs of the stakeholders we serve and the society we operate within.

Our AMP 7 plan includes commitments driven by this insight, including:

- Using 1% of profits for a new community fund;
- Improving 2,100km of rivers by 2025;
- Reducing Leakage by 15% in the next 5 years and tripling the rate of reduction by 2030; and
- Investing £10m for a new technical training academy for the Midlands.

Creating a conscious purpose

As our ambitions and vision for the future evolve around our purpose, we are continuing to work with a wide variety of partners, organisations and stakeholder groups so that the way we go about our business is aligned to commitments we have set ourselves. For example:

- We are refreshing our purpose, vision and goals to reflect our evolution and to make our commitments tangible;
- We were ranked 16th in the FTSE100 for our modern slavery approach and we are a founding member of the Slave Free Alliance;
- Our Sustainable Supply Chain charter sets our social and environmental expectations of suppliers;
- The Hampton Alexander Review placed us fourth for women in leadership; and
- We are exploring the role accreditation can play in providing legitimacy for our approach.

Taking others with us

We have an ambition to be a leader in our thinking around purpose and were delighted to be recognised as a Pathfinder company.

We are a leading force in the water sector, committing to a series of pledges, such as the eradication of water poverty and the prevention of 4 billion plastic bottles going to waste, both by 2030.

We are one of only a handful of companies in the UK to have made the triple pledge on carbon – net zero carbon emissions, 100% of energy from renewable sources, and 100% electric vehicles by 2030.

We pioneered the World Water Innovation Fund, bringing together water companies from around the globe to tackle challenges together.
