Water Framework Directive

Published this month

Available at: www.severntrent.com/future/policy-regulation/

Key messages:

- While the cost of living is rising there are environmental improvements we need to make to achieve healthier rivers
- A balance needs to be struck between these two competing needs
- By implementing the Water Framework Directive in a sustainable way, we believe it is possible to keep bills affordable and make significant environmental progress

Private drains and sewers

- To end of September 2013, customer contacts in line with previous forecast
 - As part of our preparation for PR14, we have undertaken extensive additional CCTV work on our transferred sewers. This has revealed that they are in a better condition than our previous assumptions. We have therefore been able to reduce our anticipated capital investment
 - We have chosen not to recover the cost of operating these assets from 2011-2015 through the IDoK mechanism
